Their appearance is to round out the program and give Maryville people an opportunity to see their organizations in comparison with others.

Contests in piano solo, violin solo, cornet solo, cello solo, girls and boys quartets, and Class B orchestras were held at the College today. Results of these contests were not obtainable this afternoon because of an intricate method of scoring and grading each event. They will be announced tonight, however, along with the results of home economics contests held yesterday.

Four schools played in the volley ball contest for girls this morning. Five schools were entered, but the Savannah team was late in arriving and when it did come on the court, its game with Plattsburg had been given to the other school by default.

There was only one game in the preliminary round of the contest. The Maysville girls won from the Maryville nine, 15-15, 10-15, and 15-6. The Maryville team, after losing the first game, came back in the second and won it. Maysville was too strong, however, and won the match.

In the finals between Maysville and St. Joseph Central, the latter team won in straight games 15-0, 15-12. Maysville was lacking in the serving department, but otherwise the teams were well matched.

Maryville High School carried off honors in the fine arts contests held at the College yesterday. In the contest in representation, Junior Curnutt won first place and Harold Daniels, also of Maryville won second. In costume design, Nellie Marian Smith of Maryville was first.

First place in the poster contest went to Ralph Simpson of Trenton, while second place was won by George Dupin of Benton High School, St. Joseph.

In the contest on design applied to craft work, Omar Murphy of Central, St. Joseph, was first, while Edith Glasgow and Gertrude Brady of Benton, St. Joseph, were given honorable mention.

Benton High School won first place on its annual, Wahwahlanawah. A cup was given in this contest. Mound City, with "The Missouri Mule," and Excelsior Springs with "The Excelsior," were given honorable mention.

Miss Delle Miller of Kansas City Central High School was judge of the fine arts events.

The clothing contest was held this morning. There were about 60 girls entered in this contest. The work of each girl's was judged on these points; designs and colors as to appropriateness; cost; suitability to person and hygienic qualities; stitches, kind, neatness, and appropriatenes .

The judges for the music event were Miss Theodosia Hobbs, supervisor of music in the grades at Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Mr. Alfred H. Smith, director of music at Des. Moines, Iowa.

M. H. S. VICTOR IN DRAMATICS

WINS FIRST IN PLAY AND TABLEAUX

THREE ARE PRESENTED

Maryville, Rock Port and Trenton Go to Finals in Contest at College Last Night

The presentation of "Cinderella Married" by six Maryville High School students was awarded first place in the dramatics contest at the College auditorium last night.

The play described the experiences of Cinderella, who, growing stout, finds the glass slippers are much too small and life in the palace extremely exacting. She longs for the days when she swept the hearth and chatted with the kind-hearted milk boy. The Prince learns too late that the most beautiful wild flowers may be transplanted to the formal garden, much to its own disappointment and its disappointment of its lover.

Those participating in the winning play were: Robert Porter, Edwyna Forsyth, Helen Geist, Virginia Nicholas, Lucille Snyder and Lawrence Wray.

Trenton High School students presented "Dregs," the story of an ex-convict, finding himself an outcast of society, drugs and kidnaps an adopted son of a multi-millionaire. An overdose of drugs results in the death of the lad, who is found to be the son of the former prisoner. The frantic pleas of the wife to return the child failed. Those who participated in this play were Helen Fouts, Lawrence Hall, Frank Horner and Jack Shipman.

King City students presented "The Travelers," which is the story of Americans, traveling in Switzerland, find themselves in a deserted mountain hotel, where wierd sounds and mysterious servants keep them company through a nerve-racking night. The students in this play were Clarence McBeath, Charlotte Beck, Raleigh Weaver, Tressie Clark, Clarence Frederick, Garland Snapp, Marguerite Adams and Donald Martin.

Rock Port High School students presented, "Where the Cross is Made." This is the story of a lost ship, buried treasures, and a fantastic dream of riches that took its toll by claiming the life of the demented old sea captain and the reason of the crippled son. The students in this play were: Billy Strickland, Clark Gore, Clifford Million, Henry Scott, Henry Heckel, John Richards and George Gore.

Maysville High School students presented, "Witness," a melodrama of domestic troubles, disappointments and tragedy. Students in this play were Clyde Cummings, Gilbert Reynolds, Dale Hawkins, Paul McElwain, Carolyn Perry and Maudeen Stark.

Maryville High School also won first place in tableaux, with its presentation of, "Charity." The students in the tableaux were Delores Mozingo, Marcella Clary, Christine DeBord and Edwyna Forsyth.

Track Meet Is Sure Rain Producer, Today Proves No Exception

What value would be placed on a Maryville track meet and literary contest if it could be transplanted to Kansas in the middle of July?

Local observers who maintain that the annual events are an unfailing rain producer had the chance once more to chime, "I told you so," when, just before noon today, the skies suddenly blackened, then opened and launched forth a downpour, accompanied by a strong wind.

Hundreds of Maryville residents joined with the high school athletic and literary contestants in a mad rush for cover. Some of the youthful visitors received thorough drenchings, but they came through it smiling.

The miniature cloudburst lasted but a few moments, and the sun broke through again for a shorttime. Then it commenced raining again this afternoon. The roads were reported as not badly hurt, and farmers were much pleased.

Good rains were reported at Conception Junction, Clyde, Pickering, Hopkins, Orrsburg, Barnard, Burlington Junction, Clearmont, and Ravenwood. Arkoe reported a "nice shower, and Skidmore "quite a little." The Wilcox report was a "good shower and still raining." Bedison, Guilford and Parnell reported the rainfall light.

COUNCIL GIVES TREE PERMITS

REQUESTS FOR SIGNS ALSO ARE APPROVED.

READY TO PAVE ALLY

Grade Is Established From First To Second Street—Cleaning Company To Erect Smoke Stack.

A number of permits were granted last night at a special meeting of the City Council, and an ordinance was passed to fix the grade for the alley running north and south from First to Second street in the block between Main and Buchanan, preparatory to paving.

This is the alley in the rear of the new theater being erected by J. F. Cook, and next to the garages to be built by John H. Gray.

Sam Bithos, proprietor of the Superior Cleaning Co., was granted a permit to erect a flue at the rear of the company's new building at 214 North Main street, recently occupied by the Raines Jewelry Co. The flue is to be of brick and to have a 14 or 16-foot steel stack extending above the two-story building.

The permit was granted on the condition that if the flue shall be or become a nuisance or if the smoke therefrom shall injure or interfere with the use of any property or if the stack shall become unsafe or dangerous, it shall be remedied or removed.

Mr. Bithos also was granted permission to remove his electrical sign from his former location across the street.

The Fullerton Lumber Co., was granted permission to erect a wooden sign at 514 North Main street, to extend out over the sidewalk eight feet.

Mrs. George W. Turner was granted permission to place four elm trees in the parkway on the west side of lot 7, Dunn's first addition to Maryville. She asked for permission to plant five. Permits were granted also to Franklin Reavis for three hard maple trees along the south side of his residence at 321 West Fifth street; Theo C. Gray, one elm tree in the parkway along the west side of lot 1, block 15, original town of Maryville; and Ellis G. Cook for trees at his home on West First street.

Mr. Cook's application read:

"This will advise you that I am very much desirious of planting in my own parkway two trees, and I therefore request that after due deliberation, you consent that these trees be planted there, and this might further advise you that I already have them planted."

Mrs. Ellen Taylor and Miss Mary L. Taylor were granted permission to erect a dwelling house at the corner of First and Vine streets, which is within the fire limits. The house is to be twenty-four feet square and will be of stucco with composition roof. The cost is estimated at $3,750.

Miss Marlee Elrod of Elmo was in Maryville today undergoing treatment for an ear ailment. She was accompanied by Miss Vera Hall and Dr. R. E. Ferguson.

MEET HALTED BY THE RAIN

ONLY FOUR OF GIRLS EVENTS RUN OFF TODAY.

REST TOMORROW A. M.

Plattsburg and Helena Leading When Storm Broke.—Maryville Fails to Score.

Rain interfered with the girls track and field meet at the State Teachers College this afternoon after but four of the nine events had been run off. The sun was shining feebly when the meet started with tracksters running in the mud and field contestants slipping on a soggy field, but rain began to fall shortly afterward and it was decided to abandon the meet before the first field event had been completed and after only three of the track events had been run off.

The remaining events of the meet will be run off at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, Miss Helen Manley, manager, announced.

When the events were so unceremoniously curtailed this afternoon, Plattsburg was leading with 13 points and was closely trailed by Helena with 11. Maryville did not place in any of the four events this afternoon. Chick and Hawkins were both eliminated in the semi-finals of the dash events.

B. O'Connor of Plattsburg, ran away with both of the dashes and won for herself high-point honors for the events this afternoon. A. Irwin of Helena was second with 6 points.

A poor crowd attended the meet.

The results of the events this afternoon follow:

60-yard dash: O'Connor, Plattsburg, first; Richardson, Eagleville, second; Thorning, Plattsburg, third; Irwin, Helena, fourth. Time 7 4-5 seconds.

Baseball Throw: G. Howard, Weston, first; Bonnell, Weston, second; Fanning, Harmony, third; Hines, Savannah, fourth. Distance, 186 feet.

75 Yard Dash: O'Connor, Plattsburg, first; Irwin, Helena, second; Clark, King City, third; Thorning, Plattsburg, fourth. Time, 9 7-10 seconds.

Low Hurdles: E. Sweet, Helena, first; A. Jones, King City, second; A. Irwin, Helena, third. Time 13 2-5 seconds.

Irreconcilable Drive Against Debt Pact On

Demand Italy Issues Tax-Free Bonds to Protect U. S.—Reed Launches Attack On Administration.

Washington, April 23.—The drive of the irreconcilables to force Italy to issue tax-free bonds to the United States as a protection against defaulting of payment under the $2,024,000,000 debt settlement, was opened in the Senate this afternoon.

Senator James A. Reed, Democrat of Missouri, assailed the agreement as a cancellation of two-thirds of the debt, with no assurance that Italy will ever pay the remaining one-third.

Washington, April 23.—The Coolidge administration is owned and controlled by the great banking interests of Chicago, Senator James A. Reed, Democrat of Missouri, charged in the Senate this afternoon in specifically attacking the Italian debt settlement.

Reed declared that Coolidge had never refused a request from the banking interests and that the bankers had been in possession of the government since Secretary Mellon assumed office.

No Report Made On Analysis Of Stomach

Dr. Frank Wallis, coroner, has received no report of the analysis of the stomach of Young Hale, Burlington Junction man, who died suddenly at his home last Friday. His death first was attributed to ptomaine poisoning caused by a can of sardines. Later dissatisfaction was expressed with this verdict, and the stomach was sent to a Kansas City chemist.

Hard Times Descend Upon Soviet Russia

Moscow, April 23—Hard times have descended upon Soviet Russia. Wholesale dismissals of government employes are being made in an effort to curtail expenses and many factories are closing down.

France Wants Riff Peace, Says Premier

"But We Want No Precarious Arrangement To Result in New War," Briand Declares.

Paris, April 23.—France desires permanent peace with the Riffs and has no intention of a war of conquest, Premier Briand declared before the chamber of deputies today.

"The government desires a definite peace and not a precarious arrangement which may result in new war," the premier declared. "We have no desire for conquest and seek no material advantages."

Paul Painleve, former premier, declared in answer to a question that he had never promised independence to the Riffs.

"I spoke of autonomy," he explained.

REPORTS U. S. QUITS PARLEY

BRITAIN HEARS KELLOGG DECLINED LEAGUE'S INVITATION.

RUMORS ARE DENIED

State Department Says American Delegates To Preliminary Conference Preparing To Sail For Europe.

London, April 23.—Reports were current in diplomatic circles here today that the United States has notified the League of Nations that it will not send delegates to attend the League's preliminary disarmament conference.

This report, which states that a note from Secretary of State Kellogg has already been received in Geneva declining to attend the conference, persisted despite the fact that Washington reports have announced the decision of America to attend and that delegates have already been appointed.

It has been freely predicted that the American delegates would never take their seats. It was pointed out here today that only this week Secretary Kellogg had announced the opposition of the United States to the French proposal to base disarmament upon the potential war strength of the nation, but it is understood that this declaration has brought no change in the attitude of France.

In official circles, the reports that the United States has withdrawn were received with some doubt. It is admitted, however, that the United States may decide to withdraw if there are no indications of an early success, after the conference opens.

Washington, April 23.—Reports from London today that the United States is considering withdrawing from the preliminary arms conference at Geneva, set for May 18, were vigorously denied today at the state department. Members of the American delegation, it was said, have their trunks packed, their passports in order and their passage booked on a ship leaving New York one week from today.

There is, however, a considerable amount of pessimism in officials circles here concerning the success of the gathering. While officials believe a rupture is inevitable, they do not desire that the onus for it be attached to the United States.

You Can Get Out Overcoats Tomorrow

U. S. Weather Bureau Forecasts Near Freezing Temperatures Throughout Northwest and Middle West.

Kansas City, April 23.—Almost freezing temperatures, riding in with a general cold wave, is forecast for the Middle and Northwest tomorrow by the U. S. Weather bureau here.

Summer heat this afternoon was expected to give way to showers and thunderstorms preceding the general change.

Examining Witnesses In Forgery Hearing

Columbia, Mo., April 23.—Examination of witnesses continued today in the trial of Mrs. Brooksie Angell, a member of many clubs and socially prominent here, who is accused of forging five checks on Miss Virginia Owenby of Springdale, Ark. Mrs. Owenby at one time a student in the University of Missouri, lived at Mrs. Angell's home. Mrs. Angell entered a plea of not guilty yesterday.

RECOMMENDS NEW BUREAU

SEPARATE AGENCY NEEDED, ANDREWS TELLS COMMITTEE.

SUMMING UP CASES

Wets To Step Aside Upon Conclusion of Mayor Dever's Testimony—Chicagoan Tells of Drive.

Washington, April 23.—The dry law can never be enforced effectively until Congress passes the administration's bill to establish an independent prohibition bureau with a director in charge, General Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant Secretary of the Treasury, told the Senate prohibition committee today.

Andrews, recalled to the stand by the drys, was not questioned about his previous statement that government sale of beer would be a material aid to law enforcement.

Washington, April 23.—Prohibition is destroying good government in the United States, Mayor William E. Dever of Chicago declared today before the Senate prohibition committee in a plea to Congress to end the nation-wide agitation over modification of the dry law.

The public welfare is ignored, Dever said, when the wets and drys clash without any thought of good government. The law has brought pandemonium to public life, he said, because prohibition has become a football in politics.

"We need a patient, courageous, intelligent, tolerant study of the prohibition question," the mayor declared. "There isn't a man in America who has the right to come before this committee and say dogmatically that this or that way is the right way to settle the prohibition problem. The facts are not known to any one man."

Washington, April 23.—With the American people as the jury, the wet and dry representatives today summed up their cases on modification of prohibition before the Senate judiciary committee.

The wets will step aside after the conclusion of the testimony of Mayor William E. Dever of Chicago and listen to the final testimony presented by the drys.

The drys have three hours in which to present their concluding testimony as to prohibition and arguments on the constitutionality of the efforts at modification. The hearings will close with the final summary by the wets.

Washington, April 23.—The national dry law can be enforced throughout the United States if public officials adopt the enforcement program carried out by the Chicago administration, Mayor William E. Dever of Chicago declared today before the Senate prohibition committee.

Enforcing prohibition in most communities, Dever added, would mean forcing the law down the throats of an unwilling and objecting public.

The enforcement drive in Chicago, Dever explained, while cleaning up that city, simply drove the criminals of the bootlegging element into the adjoining towns and countryside, where they flourished unhampered by the local authorities.

"If we can enforce this prohibition law in Chicago," Dever continued, "it can be done in other cities in America, if all officials, federal, city, county and local, will co-ordinate in a real effort to enforce the law. It can be enforced under such conditions and by enforcement I mean to bring about a decent respect for the law, such as we should have for all laws."

Transfusion Operation Performed At Hospital

Mrs. A. W. Frazee of Barnard underwent an operation at St. Francis Hospital this morning. Her condition this afternoon is satisfactory. Mrs. Frazee had a transfusion Monday morning and the blood was taken from her sister, Mrs. Ed Lawrence of Skidmore. It is unusual for a blood transfusion to be made before a major operation.

Weather

Showers this afternoon or tonight, cooler tonight in the west portion: Saturday partly cloudy, cooler except in the northwest portion.

Unable To Tangle Up Missouri Congressman

Clarence Cannon Is Reputed To Be One of Greatest Parliamentarians in World—Startles Farm Leaders.

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer.

Washington—Nobody ties Congressman Clarence Cannon of Missouri up in any parliamentary bowknots.

Parliamentary procedure can be made pretty complicated.

Tangling an unruly congressman up in it until he's helpless, and then chucking him carelessly aside, is one of the party leaders' favorite methods of preventing ventilation, on the floor, of subjects that they prefer to have left quietly in the cold storage of some committee room.

All this doesn't work on Cannon. Why not? Why, because he's the greatest parliamentary authority in America and one of the greatest in the world. He was the House of Representatives' parliamentary expert for many years. Its present rules were largely made by him. When a knotty parliamentary point comes up to be settled, the speaker sends for one of his text books and what that book has to offer is recognized as the last word.

Well, the other day Cannon unexpectedly announced that he had some remarks to make.

The leaders instantly sensed what they were.

He wanted to tell them that Congress, after a tremendous pretense of interest in agriculture's welfare, is now getting ready to adjourn without doing anything toward its relief—and that that's what it meant to do all along.

And in spite of all that parliamentary ingenuity, on those leaders' part, could do, he got that speech off his chest. Probably not another man in the house could have done it, against such odds.

"It's an old parliamentary trick," he said, "by which legislation too important to be ignored—legislation that has been marked for slaughter but which Congress has not the courage to slaughter openly—is delayed in committee until near adjournment and then reported out at the last minute, to be lost in the jam always attending the closing days of a long session."

What Other Editors Say

HOW?

Congress is casting about for the thing to do with reference to prohibition. The first thing to do is to enforce the law by men who believe in the law. The prohibition law has been largely in the hands of its enemies from the first. A "front" has been maintained by persecuting the minor offenders while the wholesale major conspirators have usually gone free. And there has been too much talk about what "we are going to do." The source of the greatest doubt which the public feels concerning General Andrews is that he is talking. General Smedley Butler did that in Philadelphia—very unlike a Marine—and his experience should be a lesson to other enforcement officers: What the nation asks is action. General Andrews does not need to inform us by interviews of what he intends to do. We could well forego the interviews for the pleasure of picking up the papers some morning to read of what he has done. In this matter, history is preferable to prophecy. Believers in the law, doers not talkers, these will show us what can be done. —Dearborn Independent.

THE JURY SYSTEM.

A venire of 787 was exhausted before 12 good men and true were found to try two Genna gangsters charged with the murder of a Chicago policeman—and then the accused were acquitted. "I am afraid I would have to carry a gun the rest of my life if I found these men guilty," a talisman explained to the court when asked to be excused from service on the jury. The Genna gang, which is suspected of the murder of eight men and which raised a fund of $100,000, apparently has justice intimidated. The jury system in criminal cases is bound to produce miscarriages of justice wherever there is a tendency to bring in verdicts that reflect the sympathies of the jurors, and wherever jurors are deterred from finding against the accused by the fear of reprisals.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Found Young Wolves.

Bud O'Neal and son, Willard, and Otha Reece were working at the O'Neal farm Monday morning and saw a large wolf. They started hunting for her den, and after a short search found it, and safely esconced within the den were ten young wolves.—Stanberry Headlight.

Kills Self.

Accompanied by the widow and four sons, the remains of Grant Peery were brought yesterday from the home near Corning, Mo., and buried in the Rouse cemetery at Darlington.

Mr. Peery had shot and killed himself last Sunday, at his home near Corning. His death was a sad blow to his family, and news of the tragedy was also a shock to the many friends over Gentry county. We understand that Grant had sustained a blow on the head last fall from which he had suffered much since, and it was believed that his mind had been affected by the injury. Mr. Peery was 66 years old.—Albany Capital.

Kelso Park Ready in May.

Ed Kelso is hitting things up mighty lively out at Kelso Park and is making it into an amusement park that will probably have no equal in this section of the country outside of the cities.

The swimming pool is completed although work on the house and walks, chlorine and filtering apparatus has not been completed. The pool is 104 feet across from east to west. From the north it runs for 93 feet to a fence where the children can wade in water from 6 to 18 inches deep. This is 18 feet wide. There are scum gutters clear around that empty into four 6-inch pipes carrying the water away. At the north end the pool is 8½ feet deep and a spring board will be placed on the west end of this hole.—Worth County Tribune, Grant City.

Sells To Cousins Lumber Co.

After 35 years in the lumber business in Mound City and other towns, Geo. W. Rhoads has sold his yard here to the Cousins Lumber Co., a large corporation which owns and operates a number of yards in good towns of the middle west. They also operate big wholesale lumber establishments at St. Joseph, Mo., and Grand Island, Nebr.—Mound City News-Jeffersonian.

Paper Is 61 Years Old.

This issue marks another milestone in the long and honorable history of The Holt County Sentinel.

Sixty-one years of continuous publication were completed April 16 and this week The Sentinel enters upon its 62nd year.

Since its last anniversary the angel of death again has visited its official family taking Tom Curry, secretary-treasurer of The Sentinel Printing and Publishing Company, its publisher. But on the foundation which he spent the better part of his life in building, his widow, Mina P. Curry, as publisher, and his son, William R. Curry, as editor, are carrying on.—Holt County Sentinel, Oregon.

Daviess County Finances.

According to the Gallatin Democrat, Daviess County has more than $100,000 of warrants outstanding drawing 6 per cent interest against their county. These warrants are being assembled by the holders with view to merging them in judgments against that county. A proposition has been submitted to their county court under the terms of which bonds can be issued at par bearing 5 per cent interest and the warrants paid out of the proceeds. The people of the county are asked to meet with the county court of Daviess on Saturday to consider the matter.

Discovers Scheme To Defraud Old Veterans

Agents, Representing Themselves to Be Connected With Pension Bureau, Sell Eye Glasses

Washington, April 23—Discovery of a scheme whereby hundreds of civil war veterans have been sold eye-glasses, worth five or ten cents, for from $17 to $22, by imposters who represented themselves as agents of the United States pension bureau, was announced by Secretary of the Interior Work.

One man, S. A. Pruitt, of Indianapolis, Ind., was arrested, yesterday, pleaded guilty and was given 90 days in jail at Cincinnati, Ohio, as the result of an interested bystander noting down the number of his automobile tag, when he was operating in Brown County, Ohio.

Work said it was known that Pruitt has one or more accomplices, but it is believed the scheme has been stopped for a while. The imposters pretended to examine the veterans to see if their disabilities merited an increase in pension, and then offered "high-grade optical supplies at the government price of $17 to $22 a pair." Sometimes an "urgently needed operation," was essayed, at from $300 to $500, if the pensioner had the money.

Car Accidents Are Fewer This Year

Chicago, April 23.—Motor car casualties in the United States this year are 583 less than at a similar time last year, according to figures made public by the national safety council here.

The figures show, however, that five more persons were killed daily in March than in February of this year, although the March record for this year is lower than the March record of 1925.

The only city with a population of from 300,000 to 500,000 that reported no motor car fatalities during March was Louisville, Kentucky.

Failures Last Year Show Slight Increase

Washington, April 23.—More than 185,300 commercial farms with liabilities of $4,200,000,000, have failed since 1925, figures made public by the federal reserve board show.

There were 21,214 business organizations with liabilities over the preceding year. Some improvement was reported in January and February this year with only 3,097 failures representing liabilities of $77,837,892.

Look First

The only quick-cooking oats with this flavor is "Quick Quaker"

FLAVOR is the all-important point in food. In oats it is probably more important than in any other.

That is why people who once taste the toasty richness of Quaker Oats are spoiled thereafter for all others.

Quaker flavor is unique, toasty and delightful. No other oats offers it to you. Some 50 years were spent perfecting it.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, and vitamines and this "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently balanced ration.

For your own sake, say "Quaker" when buying oats. Two kinds now at groceries: Quick Quaker (cooks in 3 to 5 minutes) and Quaker Oats as always.

Whose Advertising Bills Do You Pay?

The store that doesn't advertise pays the advertising bill for the one that does.

Every merchant in business pays for advertising, whether he uses it or not. If a competitor's advertising takes any business away from him, the profit he would have made on the lost sale is what his competitor's advertising cost him.

You have, perhaps, wondered how some stores can afford to spend such enormous sums for advertising. That is easy to fathom. Their competitor who doesn't advertise and whose business they take, pays for their advertising.

Say the Jones family is a customer of your store. They have $60, of which they intend to spend with you. They read the advertising of your competitor and are induced to spend their $60 with him instead of spending it with you. The store makes 20 per cent, or $12, on the sale. They deduct, we will say, the $1 advertising cost and have $11 profit left. The advertising has cost them nothing, they got back its cost and had $11 profit they would not have had only for their advertising.

Who paid for this advertising?

Did the advertiser pay? No. He got the cost back, and profit besides.

Did the purchaser pay? No. He paid only the regular price. Then who did pay?

The store that did not advertise paid for his competitor's advertising. He not only paid for the other fellow's advertising, but he paid out of his cash drawer the profit his competitor made on the sale. The store that doesn't advertise pays the advertising bill for the one that does. He pays in loss of sales, profits, and increased costs.

The store that loses business through not advertising has such high overhead and unit sale cost that it cannot possibly sell goods as cheaply as the store that increases its sales and reduces its cost with advertising.

The contest was judged on design, execution or workmanship, and finish. Excelsior Springs will receive a year's subscription to the Industrial Art Magazine or to Industrial Education.

In the school contest in mechanical and architectural drawing, Maryville was first and St. Joseph Central was second. Those in charge of the contest said that the Maryville drawing was outstanding, but that there is room for improvement in lettering. Maryville will receive a subscription to the National Builder.

Harold Daniels and Leland Smith, both of Maryville, were first and second respectively in the individual mechanical drawing contest. Daniels will receive a 24 inch T-square as first award. The judge of the contest complimented Smith on his drawings.

Ora Petty, Paul Whaley, and Veldron Anderson were given the three places respectively in the architectural drawing contest. Petty will receive a T-square similar to the one won by Daniels.

Adolph Shane, member of the faculty of Iowa State College at Ames, was the judge of the contests.

Around Our Town

George Pat Wright, prosecuting attorney, had his mind made up this morning to drive to St. Joseph in his car to spend the day. Mrs. Wright was going with him. Mr. Wright invited John A. Gex of Graham to accompany them but Mr. Gex declined and then Mr. Wright asked Sheriff and Mrs. Campbell to go along, and Sheriff Campbell refused to go.

While Mr. Wright went to the post office after his mail, Sheriff Campbell, Deputy Gus Romasser and Mr. Gex, in the sheriff's office, decided Mr. Wright had no business in St. Joseph today and they would keep him home. Afterwards Mr. Wright returned to his office and Mr. Gex appeared on the scene with the story that Mr. Romasser had heard J. R. Brink, weather observer, say that there was going to be a big rain storm, wind and hail about 2 o'clock this afternoon. Promptly Mr. Wright called up his wife and said the trip was off as Brink was predicting a hard rain. Shortly after that Mr. Romasser appeared in Mr. Wright's office and in that masterful way of his, appearing very innocent, said Brink had told him there was going to be a big storm and that he wouldn't drive his car through the mud from St. Joseph for $100.

But Mr. Wright had the last laugh. It did rain hard, and about two hours before schedule.

Sociability Tested Through Day Dreams

Northwestern University Professor Experimenting With Students To Discover Their Traits.

Evanston, Ill., April 23.—Day dreams as a medium of testing sociability, are being used in a series of experiments by Prof. J. B. Morgan of Northwestern University here.

Students have two reactions during their day dreams and these show their element of sociability, Professor Morgan said. The reactions are:

1.—The person who in a day dream hears a sound as faint or fainter than the faintest sound he heard when alert, has a high degree of sociability and can be lured away from work easily.

2.—The person who in a day dream can only hear a sharp sound is low in sociability and given to concentration.

Students who are being tested are taken into a dark room in which the only light comes from a three inch crystal ball. A receiver from an audiometer is placed on his ear. The crystal ball light causes the day dreams, the professor said.

CAVET EMPTOR

COMMENT ON THE UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR APRIL 25, 1926.

Read Genesis 4.

WM. SOUTHERN, JR.

Caveat Emptor is a legal phrase which means Let the Buyer Beware. It is still good law under some circumstances. Most sales under legal advertisement are made on that basis. Horse traders probably would not know what the latin words mean, but their business is usually done on exactly that theory. Second-hand motor cars are sold "As is" which means the same thing.

We have not much sympathy for the fellow who thinks he is smart and then gets stung by somebody who is just a little smarter. It is the caveat emptor principle in human law.

Real business men have discovered that this is not good business. They do not work on that principle any more. The big department store today is careful to tell in its advertisement just exactly the quality of the goods to point out this little damaged part and to explain the reason for the low price. If you are not satisfied with what you buy, if you think it is not quite as represented you take it back and your money is returned.

I once knew a young man who worked in a department store who said he was afraid to get married because his wife might want to take him back and exchange him.

Business men have found out that the caveat emptor theory does not make for stable and profitable business. They may not insist on everything being exactly as represented from any standpoint of religion, they may not even think of it as a question of morals, but they knew it is good business.

You are probably wondering what all this has to do with a Sunday school lesson taken from the 4th chapter of Genesis. There you find the story of the first murder. Cain killed his brother Abel. It has all to do with religion. It is the life blood of religion. It is the living of religion and is the lesson intended to be taught in the story of the killing of Abel by Cain and what followed after.

After Cain had slain his brother the Lord inquired of Cain "Where is thy Brother?" Cain sullenly answered: "Am I my Brother's keeper?"

This is the question which has been germane to all humanity ever since the first tragedy. We are answering this question every day, in every transaction of life, when we sell a bad grape fruit to our neighbor, when we trade horses or second hand automobiles. The newspaper man answers this question when he tells the advertiser the exact truth about his circulation.

I know a high class lawyer, high-minded and honorable who said, "No, I am not my brother's keeper. I do not want to be and he does not want me to be. I will take care of myself and he must do the same." Yet this same man would not lie to you in a law case, he would rather lose the suit. He would not do an unmanly thing or take advantage of a helpless opponent. He recognizes in his life his obligation as his brother's keeper. What he meant was that he did not try to run his brother's business or to reform his neighbor and make him over according to his own ideas. Right here is where we often get into trouble with this question. There are some people who seem to have an itching to regulate the world, to reform everybody according to their own notions and to be everybody's keeper. I know of no person so objectionable as the professional reformer. His trouble is often an overwhelming egotism, not an intense desire to do as much good as he might.

Some have said that the Bible stories are out of date and old fashioned. Most of us have not read Genesis in many years, perhaps not since as a child mother read the stories aloud. They seem to think the things written there are childish things. Get out your Bible and read Genesis. Forget the story and read it with a desire to understand what the teaching is.

This story of the murder of Abel is not only interwoven in its meaning with our lives and our manner of living and our associations, one with another, today, but it is found in art and literature and story of all the ages. The name of Cain is anathema. You never heard of anyone naming their first born Cain. The name has come down to us as a synonym of murder, lust and selfishness, especially selfishness. Writers have even endeavored to show that Esau, the Sodomites, Judas Iscariot and Benedict Arnold were descendants of Cain, suffering from the mark of murder upon the brow.

We are for the most part peaceful and law abiding citizens and avoid when we may the assumption of unpleasant things which are sometimes duties. We are inclined to make the reply to conscience which Cain made to his Lord.

I have seen men hasten away from the scene of an accident or a crime because they did not want to appear as witnesses in court. It was not a pleasant thing for General Smedley D. Butler to report a brother officer whom he saw drunk in a hotel, but it was right. Most of us will keep quiet when we know the prohibition law is being broken. We make exactly the same answer that Cain made.

A few nights ago a reckless youngster ran into a car being driven along a highway, wrecked the car and injured a young girl. A wealthy business man who happened to see the accident and get the number of the car, stopped, gave his card to the injured party and said, "I saw the whole thing, my address is here, if you have to go into court I will stop business any time and testify." This man recognized his obligation to law and order and humanity.

It seems to me that it is about time for us all to discover the secret which the big department stores have discovered, that it pays to be honest with your neighbor, that the doctrine of caveat emptor does not make for the best citizenship, that we are our brother's keeper.

Am I my brother's keeper? Each one must answer that question for himself. Each one of you will meet that question in your daily business tomorrow and every day you live with others.

It is not an ancient, mouldy, out of date feeble of olden time. It is a present day principle by which you must answer for the way you are living.

THE SIN OF HATE.

Scripture Lesson—Gen. 4. 1-26.

1. And Adam knew Eve his wife; and she conceived, and bare Cain, and said, I have gotten a man from the Lord.
2. And she again bare his brother Abel. And Abel was a keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground.
3. And in process of time it came to pass, that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the Lord.
4. And Abel, he also brought of the firstling of his flock and of the fat thereof. And the Lord has respect unto Abel and to his offering:
5. But unto Cain and to his offering he had not respect. And Cain was very wroth, and his countenance fell.
6. And the Lord said unto Cain, why art thou wroth? and why is they countenance fallen?
7. If thou doest well, shalt thou not be accepted? and if thou doest not well sin lieth at the door. And unto thee shall be his desire, and thou shalt rule over him.
8. And Cain talked with Abel his brother: and it came to pass, when they were in the field that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and slew him.
9. And the Lord said unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? And he said, I know not: Am I my brother's keeper?
10. And he said, What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground.
11. And now art thou cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand;
12. When thou tillest the ground, it shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength; a fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth.

Golden Text—Am I my brother's keeper?—Gen. 4. 9.

"OUR FATHER IN HEAVEN"--Mt. 6:9

(A sermonette by the Rev. Guy L. Prather, pastor of the First Baptist Church).

Jesus was praying; the disciples were listening. They had never heard such prayer,—intimate, confident, forceful, bringing them into touch with God as prayer had never done before. When Jesus had finished praying, the disciples asked "Lord teach us to pray." In response, Jesus gives the Lord's Prayer, a brief masterpiece of religious teaching, and the best known passage in all the Bible.

I.

Jesus brings God to us as Father, the greatest thing he ever told us about God. No Old Testament saint had ever addressed God in this way. Power, majesty, wisdom, justice, eternity are divine characteristics which the old Hebrew recognized. But he knew not God as Father, with all the force of life and love which lies enfolded in this term.

This relation includes a tie of nature or supernature. The oak grows from the acorn, because of inner forces. The son grows into the likeness of his father. The very divine life-blood flows through all the life of God's child, giving form and direction, and helping to grow into the Father's form.

God's son thus has a larger outlook, greater worth, richer sources, eternal qualities.

A tie of love also binds the Father and son. He watches our growth with delight. He rejoices at our responses. He aids the child's unfolding life. He surrounds with a thousand tokens of his love. He meets our needs. He trains us. With knowledge, with ability, with abundance, he ministers, as no earthly father can.

The Fatherhood of God is present relationship to all who accept it. It is possible to all through Christ. And when once established, the relationship lasts. Jesus says "They shall never perish."

II.

Growing out of the Fatherhood of God comes the Brotherhood of Man.

Only as men are right with God can they be right with men, in all of life's noblest qualities.

God alone forgives, cleanses, and curbs greed, passion, crime, neglect.

He alone supplies proper ideals and motives, and gives inspiration to love and service.

He alone raises all men to supreme worth, and binds them together in bonds of brotherhood.

Such brotherhood overleaps barriers of wealth, culture, race, and seeks to serve with loving heart and willing hand, often at great expense and difficulty. The little word "Our" that begins the prayer, points to a Brotherhood of Man not yet realized.

III.

That our Father is in Heaven brings out the thought of his permanence in all relations to us. He gives Eternal Life to his children.

There is also the thought of perfection in all the good qualities of fatherhood.

Our earthly relationships are marred with evil, and hardship, and death. Yet are they filled with great delight.

Clothed in these earthly garbs and terms are living suggestions to hungry hearts of the Heavenly Father.

The pastor regretted being absent from the service last Sunday morning, but was called to the Mt. Olive church in Harrison County, to conduct a funeral service. We were glad, however, that we had one in our congregation who could take full charge of the service so no one was disappointed. In fact, we have several in the church who could preach the sermon in an emergency. The "supply" last Sunday consisted in a report of the State Convention by Orlo Lincoln. Judging by the remarks we have heard, it was very interesting.

The sermon for next Sunday will be as follows: Morning, "My Brother's Keeper." Evening, 8 o'clock, "Lessons from the Life of Isaac."

Sunday School fell off a little last Sunday. Whose fault was it, yours, the weather, or the roads? Please let's all remember, all roads lead to church on Sunday. Glad to see you.

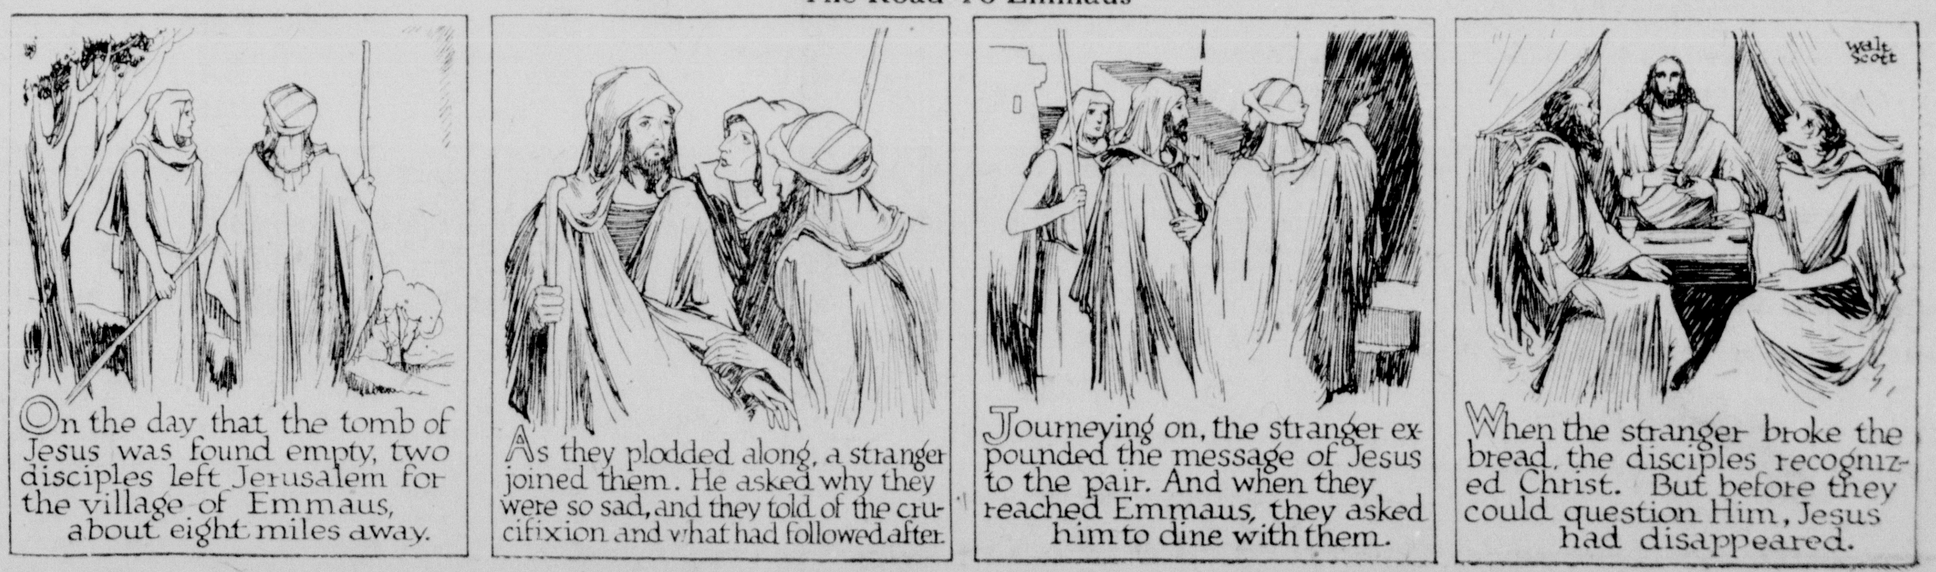
DRAMATIC EVENTS IN BIBLE HISTORY : : : : By Harlowe R. Hoyt

The Road To Emmaus



On the day that the tomb of Jesus was found empty, two disciples left Jerusalem for the village of Emmaus, about eight miles away.
As they plodded along, a stranger joined them. He asked why they were so sad, and they told of the crucifixion and what had followed after.
Journeying on, the stranger expounded the message of Jesus to the pair. And when they reached Emmaus, they asked him to dine with them.
When the stranger broke the bread, the disciples recognized Christ. But before they could question Him, Jesus had disappeared.

THESE WOMEN

by MALCOLM DUART

©1926 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

AUDREY MORTON, wildly in love with her guardian, HARRY MORTON, runs away from home because she is jealous of Morton's other women friends. She is found in a small village near Kansas City and returns home.

At the end of yesterday's installment, she has just telephoned to NONA, one of her rivals, to come to her apartment while Morton sleeps.

Morton, handsome, middle-aged, attractive to women and rich, has lived in Springfield for fifteen years, without the gossips there ever learning his past or what his business is. He also maintains an apartment in Kansas City, and divides his time between the two.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XX.

It was a wondering and very sleepy Nona who presently appeared at the Morton apartment. Audrey met her at the door, and laying her fingers on her lips, pledged her to silence until they were in Audrey's own little study, with the doors closed and locked.

"I haven't had any breakfast!" protested Nona.

Audrey gave a little cry of concern, and ran into the hall.

"Bring some breakfast up to my study," she told the butler, "as soon as you can, but don't make any noise. Mr. Morton is tired, and mustn't be awakened."

"What's more," Nona went on, when Audrey returned, "I didn't get to bed until about four o'clock."

Audrey sank back into a chair. "Oh, Nona! I'm so selfish! You've hardly had any sleep at all."

Nona went to a mirror that hung over Audrey's desk, and inspected her face. Producing a lip stick, she remade the bright crimson bow on her lips. With a vigorous brush from a rouged cloth, she brightened her cheeks and dusted a little powder over them.

Turning her face from side to side, she appraised the result and apparently satisfied sat down.

"I thought Harry—Mr. Morton—was sick or something," she said. She blinked sleepily. "What did you want, Miss Morton?"

"Call me Audrey," urged the girl.

"All right," said Nona. "The folks I meet hardly ever are 'Miss' or 'Mister.' We just call them by their front names, and they're comfortable. I'll feel better calling you Audrey."

Audrey brought her chair close to the other girl. "You know that letter I wrote you? The one that came special delivery? Did you show that to Mr. Morton?"

Nona started.

"Did he say I showed it to him"

Audrey shook her head. "No, he didn't. He wouldn't tell a thing like that. But I just thought you'd show it to him!"

Nona stared at her, astonished, and then laughed. "Well, I DID show it to him, but I never supposed you WANTED me to!"

Audrey smiled with her. "You know," she said, "I went away on an impulse, and I didn't just know how to come back, and I wanted him to find me! So I wrote to you."

Nona moved her head from side to side, slowly, as if in deep wonderment. "Don't women do queer things?" she inquired.

"But I really did want to find out those things I asked you in the letter," Audrey went on. "I saw Mr. Morton at a cabaret the other night with some girls."

Nona started forward. "With some girls? Who were they? Where?"

There was deep concern in her voice.

"Why, at the Bon cabaret," Audrey said. "Shouldn't I have told you?"

Nona's face had lost it's smile.

"Women—women! Always with women!" She sighed heavily. "Do you know who they were?"

Audrey shook her head. "One girl had red hair, and very red cheeks," she ventured.

"Huh!" Nona ejaculated. "That doesn't mean anything! Henna and rouge!"

She patted the back of Audrey's hand. "I'm not jealous of you any more, Audrey," she said, "but I AM jealous of those other women. I wonder who they were?"

"I don't know at all, Audrey said, "but there is one of the very things I wanted to ask you about."

She took a stool, and drew it beside Nona's chair. Then she sat upon it, resting her arm on Nona's knee and looking up into the older girl's face. "Nona, what is it that you and those other girls say to him—how do you act—that makes him like you so much?"

"If I could answer that question," said Nona, slowly, "Harry and I would be starting for Europe together tomorrow! I love him, but he doesn't love me. I don't believe he loves any of these women. But they just fight over him!"

"But there must be some difference between you, Nona, and me!" Audrey said. "He says he loves me, but I must only regard him as if he were my father. And then he seeks the company of those girls, instead of mine. Nona, I want to know how to make myself more attractive to him. Can you tell me?"

Nona sighed. "I suppose women have been trying to learn that very thing since the world began," she said. "If we try to vamp a man, he doesn't vamp worth a cent. At least, if we really like him. If we don't care anything about him, it's not so hard. I don't know—it's queer!"

She brushed her handkerchief wearily across her eyes.

"Nona, you're so tired!" There was sympathy and self-criticism in Audrey's voice. "Go and lie down in my bed, and sleep a while!"

Nona unexpectedly began to cry.

"I won't do that," she said, trying to wipe her tears away, "but you're a sweet little kid!"

"Why, that's what Mr. Morton calls me!" said Audrey.

Nona took up her wraps, and started away. Audrey halted her. "Wait until I can send for the car," she said. "That poor driver hasn't had much sleep, either, but I want you to ride back to your apartment. You are terribly tired."

Ten minutes later Nona rolled away in the Morton car, the yawning driver sleepily at the wheel. Audrey watched them out the window until they were out of sight.

It was well after noon when Morton reappeared.

Freshly shaven, in immaculate linen, his crisp, graying hair brushed back, he came running down the steps like a boy.

Audrey was waiting for him in the drawing-room. When he saw her, he stopped, suddenly.

"What in the dickens have you been doing to your face?" he demanded.

Audrey looked at him demurely. Her lips were scarlet, and her cheeks were bright with rogue. Where her full, shapely eyebrows had been, now was only a thin line. Her brows had been plucked.

Morton looked more closely. There was mascara upon her eyelashes.

"What in the name of all that's holy is the big idea?" he wanted to know.

"I just wanted to look pretty," she told him, pursing her lips. "I called up Mr. Parrish, and he is going to take me out this afternoon."

Morton smiled grimly. "You'll give him the shock of his life," he said. "What did you gum up your face like that for?"

"Don't I look nice."

"Of course you do," he said, "but you don't look as nice as you did before. You don't need any of that stuff on your lips, and cheeks. I wish you would take it off."

She shook her head determinedly. "There has been something wrong with me, and In trying to make it right," she said. "You wouldn't leave me to go out with other women if I were as attractive as they are. I have seen them, and I see how they look and dress, and I'm going to do just the way they do." She came closer to him, and looked up into his face. "I'd dress myself like a Fiji islander if I could make you stay with me!"

He sat down, troubled. "Hang it," he said, "that isn't the idea! Men don't like women with war paint on!"

"Then why do they go with women who paint that way?" she inquired.

"Because they're amusing, I suppose," he said, "but great heavens! You don't suppose that any man is fooled by cosmetics, do you?"

"I don't know what it is that makes those girls attractive," Audrey said, "but I'm going to keep on trying until I find out. And I'm going to do everything they do, and wear everything they wear, until I DO find out."

Morton gave up the discussion, and calling for his coat and hat, went out the door. Audrey stood thinking a moment, and then followed him. She caught the next elevator, and as she reached the street, saw him walking rapidly toward the corner.

Without regard to Parrish, who was due at the apartment, she sped after her guardian, trying to catch up with him. He turned the corner, and stepped into a cigar store. When he came out, she was at the door.

"Daddy, forgive me!" she said.

"But I didn't want you to go away. I'm afraid you misunderstood me. I don't want to be a tough woman! I just want you to like me."

He took her arm and turned with her toward home. "We'll go on back there, until young Parrish comes," he said. "Then you go out with him. Try your new scheme on him, and see if it works. If you're expert, and do the thing right, you may be able to find out a lot of things about men."

When they reached their building, Parrish was just entering the elevator.

"Hello, Parrish," said Morton, "And goodbye."

He kissed Audrey and hurried out the door. Parrish watched him until he was out of sight. Then he turned to Audrey. Seriously he looked at her rouged cheeks and reddened lips and sighed.

"Shall we walk?" he asked.

Together they turned back to the street again.

"Do you know," said he, as they fell into step. "There has been something I have been wanting to say to you for a long time."

She looked up at him interestedly. "What was it?"

He pondered a moment and then continued. "Do you know, Miss Morton, that I have been wanting to speak to you about something, but I suppose it is none of my business? Something that I think you ought to think about?"

Her look was inquiring, but he had difficulty in going ahead.

"You see," he said, "it's like this. We saw Mr. Morton in that cabaret the other night. And we have seen him with that girl he calls Nona. Now here's what I wanted to say—you're his adopted daughter, and everything like that, but wouldn't it be better for you, as a young girl, if you lived some place else?"

Audrey whirled on him. "What do you mean?" sh cried.

"I mean I think he isn't the right man to be your guardian and to live in the same house with you."

He stopped abruptly.

Audrey, stepping back a pace, slapped him in the mouth.

Audrey was waiting for him in the drawing room. When he saw her he stopped suddenly.

"What in the dickens have you been doing to your face?" he demanded.

Car Production This Year Much Greater

Manufacture of Five Million Autos and Trucks Forecast on Basis of Present Schedule

Washington, April 23—Automobile production this year is 30 per cent ahead of last year, forcasting a 1926 production of 5,000,000 cars and trucks, compared with 4,300,00 produced in the United States and Canada in 1925.

Reduction in the new Canadian tariff from 35 to 25 per cent for automobiles valued at $1,200 and under, which has just come into effect, is expected to stimulate American production. The duty of higher priced cars was reduced 7½ per cent.

The output of trucks and passenger cars in the United States the first quarter of 1926 was 1,085,374, the Commerce Department has announced. The Canadian output in the same period was 55,528, compared with 37,441 a year ago.

There were 858,086 motor vehicles manufactured in the United States in the first quarter of 1925. This year's increase 25 per cent in this country, compared with 50 per cent in Canada.

Board of Appeals Will Meet Monday

Actions as Board of Equalization to Be Reviewed—Will Consider County Infirmary Plans.

Objections to the decisions of the County Board of Equalization will be heard at the courthouse Monday by the County Board of Appeals, composed of the same officers. The county judges also will inspect the plans which have been submitted for a new county infirmary and probably will make a selection.

The wreckage of the old infirmary has been cleared away and about 60,000 bricks were salvaged. About 10,000 hollow tiles were taken from the fire ruins in good shape and can be used in cross walls. The junk removed amounted to more than a carload.

This Week In Missouri History

By Floyd C. Shoemaker

The southwest branch of the Pacific Railroad reached Springfield, April 21, 1870. The construction train pulled alongside the depot in the woods of North Springfield just before sunset on that day. Nearly all the population of Springfield and the vicinity was on hand to view the iron horse which had been fifteen years in coming 204 miles.

The road was designed to run from Pacific (then Franklin), a town thirty-seven miles west of St. Louis on the Pacific Railroad, to the western boundary of the state south of the Osage River.

Construction began June 1, 1855, though the project was financially at a standstill. The bonds guaranteed only by the company had no sale. Subscription to the capital stock was light. As for the land grant of 1,040,000 acres the sales never amounted to enough to be of real service.

State aid, or a loan of $1,000,000 in bonds to be sold by the company, was granted December 25, 1852. None of these bonds were issued, because a $500,000 subscription to the capital stock was first required. Loans totaling $4,500,000 were granted on easier terms. December 10, 1855 and March 3, 1857.

When the road reached Rolla, a distance of seventy-seven miles, on December 22, 1860, it was the most expensive railway in the state, having cost $4,895,611, or $63,580 per mile. Says one authority, "It seems evident that no small amount of this money was squandered." The company defaulted on July 1, the following year.

Rolla was a child of the railroad. It might have been christened "Phelps Center," "Hardscrabble," or "Raleigh." E. W. Bishop, from New England, had secured the location of the depot on his land: He could not quite stand that it be named for a North Carolina City. So they compromised on spelling it Rolla.

Confederate raids did more damage to the South West Branch than to any other railway. Hon. Sempronius H. Boyd tried to get the Federal government to extend the road to Springfield as a war measure; but the cost defeated the project.

After the war, public opinion demanded the completion of the railroad. The state decided to give up its lien on the road, thus taking on itself the whole bond debt, and enabling a new management to raise money by mortgage. Accordingly, the State sold the road and lands to Gen. John C. Fremont on March 12, 1866 for $1,300,000.

Fremont extended the track to Arlington and consolidated the road with the Atlantic and Pacific Company, which was chartered by Congress to build a road from Springfield, Mo., to the Pacific ocean. He sold out to parties who defaulted. The road reverted to the State.

On March 17, 1868, the State relinquished the property in fee simple to the South Pacific Railroad Company, a union of former competitive bidders. It was required that $300,000 of interest be paid and that the railroad be completed to the western boundary of the state in Newton county by June 10, 1872. The South West Branch reached the boundary about the first of April, 1871 and was the fourth railway built across the state.

On October 5, 1869, the road was completed to Lebanon, which graciously shifted from the original town to the depot, a familiar story in railroad history. The first passenger train ran on October 20, 1869.

Springfield was not so complaisent about the location of the depot. The town was feeling good during the 1866-'70 boom, and rather thought the railroad should be glad to deflect a mile and a quarter for it.

"Your charter compels you to build into Springfield," said one prominent citizen. "You have to build into Springfield, and we do not have to pay you one cent for doing it!"

At that, Andrew Pierce of Boston, railroad commissioner, leaped to his feet, and smiting the table with his fist, shouted: "All right, that settles it. I'll very soon show you where I'll put the depot!"

In a way, this blow made Springfield. Enough zealous public spirit was roused to last the town for all time. For example—when the railroad endowed North Springfield with an elegant three-story frame hotel, a stock company in the old town retaliated with a four-story brick hotel.

Despite the depression following the railroad boom, this spirit in 1878 built the "Jerk Water Route" to Ash Grove, which attracted the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis road to Springfield. This spirit in 1873 secured the machine shops of the South Pacific to North Springfield.

The two towns united in 1887, having demonstrated that neither could be "busted" by the other. The bone of contention, the depot, came back to the old town in 1901, on the consolidation of the Memphis line with the St. Louis and San Francisco, or Frisco, as the South Pacific had become in 1876.

Even in 1870, Springfield realized that a railroads benefits the country in general, regardless of the station site. When on May 3 the South Pacific was formally opened, the celebration took place in the old town.

Speaking for the Southwest, John S. Phelps, afterward governor, said:

"You can hardly appreciate the difficulties under which we have labored without an easy and expeditious communication with other portions of the state. We were in an almost isolated condition; access to our county could only be obtained by days of tiresome and weary travel.

"The bright and happy future, the subject of our wishes for many long years, has just arrived upon us . . . No longer will we be compelled to give one half our surplus crops to transport the other half to market. . ."

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, April 23.—Grain prices closed fractionally lower on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Weather conditions were the predominating influences in local markets.

The wheat market was a nervous affair throughout the session and closed sharply lower in the May deliveries. The pit was all too susceptible to weather bulletins for particularly decided movement to be made by operators one way or another. The bearish weather bulletins eliminating from various points had the edge taken off to some extent by the forecast for freezing in the western part of Nebraska tonight.

Corn showed more inherent strength than wheat but nevertheless closed fractionally lower. Despite the strength of the undertone, the market was comparitively quiet with no features.

Brisk demand in the East failed to hold oats above the previous close and prices when the session ended were fractionally lower.

Provisions closed irregular.

BIG MEET IS ON TOMORROW

275 ATHLETES FROM 36 SCHOOLS TO COMPETE

RAIN BAD FOR TRACK

Duce of Maysville and Smith of Ridgeway Bid to Be Two of Strongest Individual Performers

The seventeenth annual track and field meet for boys of the high schools of Northwest Missouri will get under way at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when Starter John McMurphy speeds the 220-yard dash men off in the first race of a meet i nwhich 275 athletes fro mthirty-six schools are entered.

Fair weather being the order of the day, the meet should be one of the fastest on record. The track at the College has been groomed and re-groomed for the last two weeks, and the rain of yesterday morning was just the thing needed to make it in the fastest shape possible.

The rain today was bad for the oval, however, and sunshine and warmth tomorrow morning will be needed to make the footing up to expectation.

The meet will be divided into two classes. All schools with an enrollment of more than 200 students will be in Class A, while those with less than 200 students enrolled will be in Class B. There will be one exception to this rule, in that Maysville High School, with an enrollment of less than 200 will be in Class A. Rules of the State High School Athletic Association permit any Class B school to move up into Class A, but no Class A school may move downward. Maysville insisted on being in the higher class this year. It will be remembered that the Maysville tracksters were winners in Class A last year, and they evidently are anxious to repeat.

Maysville bases a great portion of her claim for track supremacy on the performance of Duce, all-round track and field man, who is entered in the 220-yard dash, the shot put, the broad jump, the 100-yard dash, the low hurdles, and both relays.

There is an outstanding man in Class B, and on him Lon Wilson and the whole town of Ridgeway depend to carry off honors in the contest. His name is Smith, and he is entered in the 220-yard dash, the shot put, the high hurdles, the broad jump, the 100-yard dash, the javalin, the low hurdles, the discus, and both relays.

It would seem that Coach Wilson is overworking this man a bit, but records show that he was high-point man of the meet last year, taking 20 points, and at the meet in Liberty last week he scored 23½ points out of his team's total of 27½ to win the meet.

St. Joseph Central with an entry list of fourteen men, is expected to be a strong contender for honors in the meet.

With eighteen men, Ridgeway has the largest entry list of the meet. Maysville and Cameron each have fifteen men entered. Ten are on the list from Maryville. Several schools have but two or three entries, and Blythedale bases her hopes on the shoulders of one lad, Craig.

There will be fourteen events this year. Eight of these will be in track and the other six in field. Following are the Northwest Missouri track and field records which will face the test tomorrow:

100 yard dash—10 1-10 sec., Wilcox, Liberty, 1925.

Pole vault—11 ft. 5 1-4 in., R. Walker, Lathrop, 1925.

Shot put—43 ft., W. Moore, Ridgeway.

120-yard High hurdles—16 5-10 sec., Grooms, Maysville, 1925.

Discus throw—114 ft., 2 in., Hiatt, Bethany, 1924.

220-yard dash—22 8-10 sec., Wilcox, Liberty, 1925.

Javalin throw—146 ft., 6 in., Henry, Maysville, 1925.

Running high jump—5 ft., 9 in., Walkup, Fairfax, 1923.

Half mile run—2 min., 4 sec., Sweat, Grandview, 1923.

220-yard low hurdles—26 1-5 sec., Criswell, Savannah, 1921.

Running broad jump—21 ft., 9 1-2 in., Castle, St. Joseph Central, 1916.

440-yard dash—53 8-10 sec., Ungles, Maitland, 1925.

Half mile relay—1 min., 38 3-5 sec., Maryville, 1923.

Medley relay—3 min., 56 4-10 sec., Cameron, 1925.

Live Stock Judging Completed By Noon

Contestants Taken to Bellows and College Farms for Cattle and Hogs—Aley and Doyle's Sheep

The judging contest in live stock was held this morning at the State Teachers College with eight schools contesting in class A and three schools in class B, a total number of forty-five student contestants. The seven types of live stock were judged. They were fat barrows, brood sows, dairy cows, sheep, beef cows, beef bulls and mules.

The sets of papers will be judged and graded by M. T. Foster, of the department of Animal Husbandry at the University of Missouri. Three winners will be chosen from the contesting groups and three winners from contesting individuals.

The judging was conducted efficiently and by noon was completed, the time required being much more shorter than last year, when it was necessary to lap over into the afternoon in order to finish.

The contestants first were taken to the Dale Bellows farm, where they were set to the task of judging beef bulls and beef cows. The contestants were divided into two sections for each type of live stock. They were given twenty minutes to judge and record their notes and then the sections were reversed and the judging continued another twenty minutes.

From the Bellows farm the contestants were taken to the College farm and there divided into five classes, twenty minutes given to each class for judging. This was continued until each section had judged each of five types of stock at the farm. They were dairy cows, mules, fat barrows, sheep and brood sows.

The sheep for this contest were supplied by Aley and Doyle, breeders of pure Shropshire sheep.

The towns and the contestants of each follow:

Class A:

Maysville: Riley Dunham, Karney Redman, Albert Dyer, Milton Meek.

Ridgeway: Glenn Prather, Howard Linthicum, Charles Stanley, P. Rinehart, I. Israel.

Maryville: Walter Dow, James Hutson, George Hepburn, Thomas Malson, John Dooley.

King City:

Verne Workman, Ralph Payne, Kenneth Smith.

Sheridan: Edwin Hayworth, Chauncey Fisher.

Harmony: Franklyn Dowden.

New Point: Halley Randall, Kenneth Lentz, Melvin Carson.

How a Maryville Man Sold His House

IT WAS a good house, but for months and months he had tried without success to sell it. Then one day his wife said: "I believe if you'd paint the porch floor it would be more attractive, and would help sell the house. All the neighbors' children play over here with our boys, and really, they've spoiled the looks of that fine, big porch."

So he gave it two coats of Armorcote Floor Enamel—and the effect was startling. From a worn, shabby porch it was changed to a bright, cheerful, new one! And two weeks later the house sold!

Have you floors that get an unusual amount of wear? Do they look worn and shabby? Then why not come in and get a can of Armorcote Floor Enamel?

It's made to stand up under the hardest kind of wear. For wood or concrete, inside or outside. And for porch furniture, baseboards, porch columns, too!
